GRAVESEND, March 30.—The brig Angenora of and from Guernsey (stone), arrived this morning; she had been ashore in the Lower Hope.

FRENCH COIN.—The Press Association sends us the following telegram:—The Board of Customs have instructed their collectors at various Channel ports to report the landing of any package of French bronze money with a view to stopping its further importation.

THE CONVICT DUBOSCQ. Jeanne Marie Duboscq, the Frenchwoman convicted at the March Assizes for the manslaughter of a young girl named Riot, in Hilgrove-lane, will leave the island to-morrow, for Woking, where she will undergo the sentence of twenty-one years' penal servitude passed on her. The convict is the first woman who has been sentenced in Jersey during the last thirty-eight years to a term of penal servitude.

TREAT TO EMPLOYEES.—On Monday evening, Messrs. C. G. Renouf and Son entertained their employés, at the New Pontac Hotel. After dinner (which was served in Mrs. Arthur's usual excellent style) had been done full justice to, the usual loyal toasts were given. Mr. Renouf, senr, in response to "Success to the Firm," remarked that it gave him great pleasure in meeting his Assistants, and touched upon the kindly feeling existing between himself and his men, and hoped he would have the pleasure of again meeting them under similar circumstances. Various recitations, songs, and solos were given, the company breaking up about midnight, after spending a most enjoyable evening.—(Communicated)

THE DERELICT.

No change had been made in the position of the derelict this afternoon. Preparations are, however, being made for a successful effort which, if not made to-day, will be tried to-morrow. It will be remembered that the previous attempt to right the vessel was foiled owing to the yielding of the pendant chain of the Government buoy. On the next attempt—for it has not already taken place—the moorings will be utilized, but the gear instead of being secured as before to the pendant chain will be fastened to the span of the moorings which is calculated to resist an immense strain. The operation will commence on the rise of the tide. It is calculated that the derelict will either be submerged, or the material employed break if the vessel is not restored to her right position as, in addition to the overwhelming power of the rising tide the Alert and Rescue will combine their forces to obtain the object sought. As a reason for the diver employed not removing the tangle of spars and rigging dependent from the hull, the IA are determined to ascertain for themselves the precise nature and condition of the lading before entering into a definite arrangement. From the salvors' aspect their action is reasonable, assuming the allegation to be correct. With vast labour they have succeeded in placing the derelict in safety, and they are entitled to know her condition, the nature of her lading also, and the wish on their behalf is general that their reward will be commensurate with the toil and responsibility they have undergone. — Comet of Wednesday.
